

Office of the Criminal District Attorney 2015 Annual Report

Sharen Wilson, CDA

A MESSAGE FROM YOUR CDA

Among my priorities when I was sworn in to this position in January of 2015 was to increase both the level of communication and transparency between this office and the Tarrant County community. We continue to implement new initiatives intended to encourage an ongoing dialogue around the services we provide, and this, the first comprehensive Annual Report by the Tarrant County Criminal District Attorney's office, has been prepared for you as a detailed account of the past year's activities.

And what a year it's been! In addition to the almost 43,000 criminal cases filed with this office in 2015, we handled numerous new and unanticipated challenges in our ongoing mission to provide justice for the citizens of Tarrant County. New legislative initiatives, legal precedents and forensic discoveries continue to change the landscape, and we meet each new task at hand with the firm knowledge that in this job no day is unimportant, no decision is irrelevant, and no relationship is immaterial.

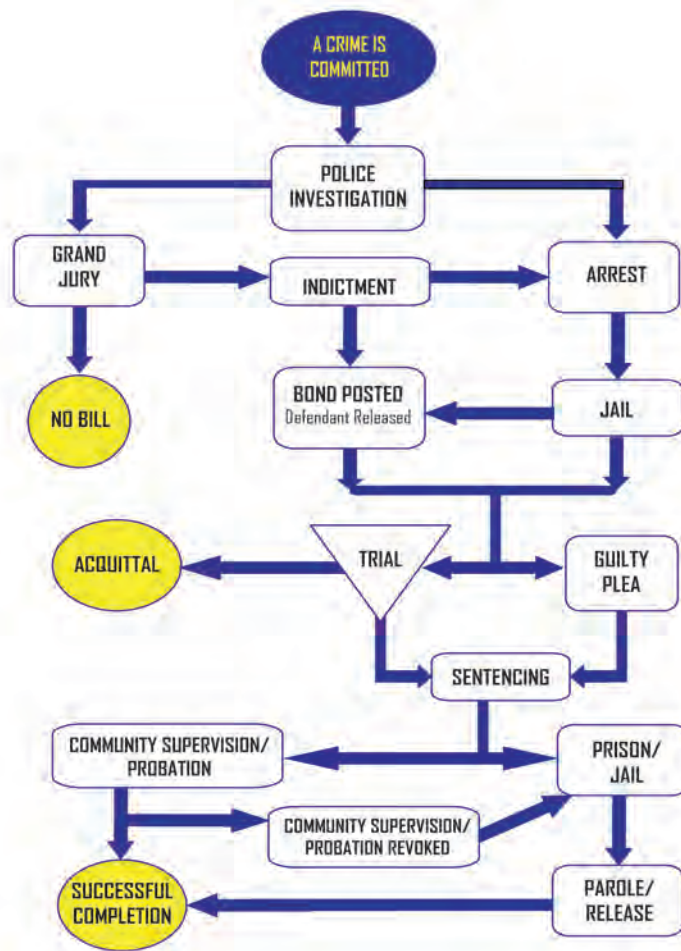

I hope you find this Annual Report to be both interesting and informative. It is an honor to work with the talented and dedicated employees of this office each day, and to serve you as your Criminal District Attorney.

Sincerely,

OUR DIVISIONS

The Criminal Division

The Criminal Division is the largest division, and is charged with the responsibility to investigate and prosecute the thousands of criminal allegations which are brought in Tarrant County each year. The division consists of a number of specialty units, each dealing with a specific facet of the Office's prosecutorial responsibilities. These include:

- 10 Felony Courts
- Conviction Integrity
- Gang
- Grand Jury
- Intake
- 10 Misdemeanor Courts
- Juvenile
- Post Conviction
- Special Victims
- White Collar/Public Integrity

The Criminal Division is led by Chief Larry Moore, and two Deputy Chiefs, Tiffany Burks and Kevin Rousseau.

The Civil Division

The Civil Division, led by Chief Vince Cruz, Jr., acts as General Counsel for Tarrant County, providing legal advice to its elected and appointed officials.

This division also assists victims of family violence in obtaining protective orders, and represents the State of Texas in obtaining involuntary commitments of persons who have not committed a crime, but have been diagnosed by two physicians as having a mental condition that will pose a threat to themselves or someone else.

Finally, civil attorneys represent the Department of Family and Protective Services (formerly CPS) in cases where abuse or neglect are alleged and court intervention is sought.

The Investigation Division

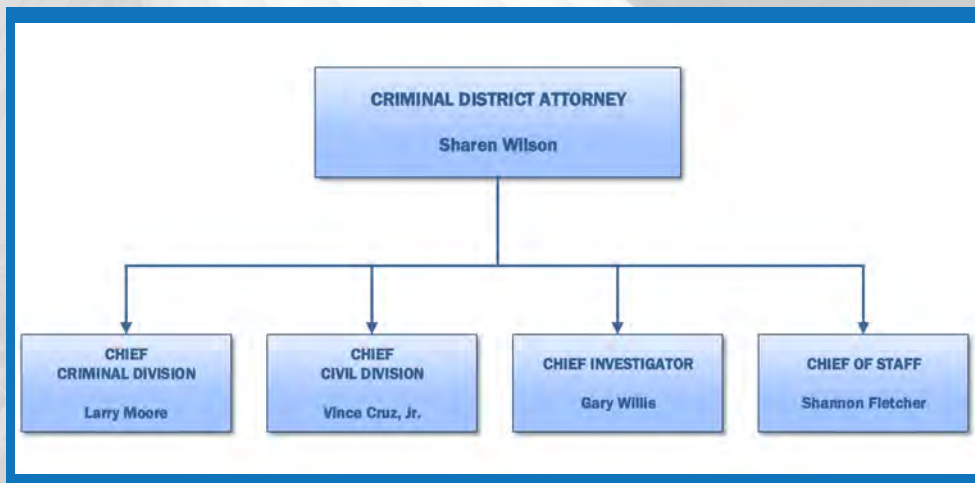

The primary responsibilities of the Investigation Division include assisting the prosecutors in evaluating and preparing cases for trial. CDA investigators are certified Texas Peace Officers with a wealth of law enforcement knowledge and experience. Their duties often include traditional activities such as arresting suspects, interviewing witnesses, and advising and assisting other Federal, State and local law enforcement agencies in a variety of situations. This division also includes our Digital Forensic and Technology Services (DFATS) unit, a “one-stop shop” for our digital media evidence.

The Investigation Division is led by Chief Investigator Gary Willis, and Assistant Chiefs, Danny McCormick and Kyle Gibson.

The Chief of Staff Division

The Chief of Staff Division is responsible for all non-lawyer, non-investigator operations of the office. These include hiring and personnel matters, internal information technology needs, facility requirements, and the administration of the CDA Office’s annual budget and annual report. Led by Chief of Staff Shannon Fletcher, this division also includes the Victim Advocates, Community Outreach, and Communications units.

LEADING BY EXAMPLE

Criminal Justice & Law Enforcement Agencies

Every day our office works in partnership with other law enforcement agencies to investigate and prosecute criminal offenders. It only further strengthens our investment in our community to build relationships of trust with our law enforcement officers, through which we can create an environment of zero tolerance for the criminal element.

COMPLIANT DISCOVERY

In 2015, we implemented the Discovery Compliance Policy, the first official policy for compliant Brady disclosure in the State of Texas. Developed in close partnership with the police chiefs of every department in Tarrant County, it creates a clear process for disclosure between the police, CDA's office, and defense attorneys on all applicable future cases. Local law enforcement is currently 100% in compliance, and the policy has quickly become a model for numerous other Texas counties.

In addition to the DCP, last year CDA Wilson met regularly with the police chiefs around the county to create a forum for ongoing dialogue among our various law enforcement agencies. In the interest of continuing to foster trust at all levels, we further expanded our outreach by assigning an Assistant CDA and CDA Investigator as liaisons to each police department. Through a grant from the R4 Foundation, we created a secure Police Lounge in our building for officers who must spend long hours on site waiting to testify in our trials.

DIGITAL FORENSICS AND TECHNOLOGY SERVICES

Early last year, the multi-year effort to centralize our digital capabilities came together in the new CDA Digital Forensics and Technology Services unit (DFATS). Our state-of-the-art DFATS unit is the only "one-stop shop" for digital media evidence in Texas, and one of the only facilities of its kind nationwide. The DFATS team has the ability to image, analyze and interpret the data from audio, video, cellular, and computer sources. As well as providing services for the 40+ law enforcement agencies in Tarrant County, DFATS has assisted investigations by more than 60 outside agencies across Texas and the U.S. Of only 55 Certified Forensic Video Analysts in the world, two are members of the DFATS staff.

DFATS employees also provide much-needed technical trial support, converting complicated evidence into exhibits and demonstrative aids which allow the jurors, prosecutors, defense attorneys, and the judge to clearly review and understand the information presented. In 2015, more than 1,800 of these exhibits were created for trial. A full-scale mobile mat was created which accurately depicted for the jury in one of our capital murder trials the dimensions of the bathroom crime scene, allowing jurors to observe first hand inaccuracies in the defendant's description of the incident.

CREATING DIVERSION

When our ACDAs are assigned a case, they are encouraged to consider three possible resolutions: trial, plea, or diversion. We are most often asked about the diversion opportunities available to youth, with the hope that the earlier in life an offender is reached, the greater chance there is to create a law-abiding member of society.

Last year, we updated the decades-old Deferred Prosecution Program (DPP), a limited supervision program designed to give the young person in trouble for the first time a chance to rehabilitate without the stigma of a criminal conviction. Initially created in the 1970s by longtime CDA Tim Curry, today's vastly different landscape inspired several updates, ensuring more accessibility for minorities and low income youth, while also allowing it to run more efficiently for staff. DPP is now available to offenders aged 17 to 24 at the time of the offense, who have not previously been convicted of a crime; it has tracks for non-drug and for drug-related offenses. Much is expected from DPP applicants, but if they have the drive to change the path they're on, it can provide a real second chance. Since the enhanced program began in August, there have been 198 enrollments, with 90% of the first class' enrollees completing the challenging process.

Another program we championed this year is Project SAFeR. Created in partnership with Lena Pope and Alliance for Children, Project SAFeR is designed to assist families dealing with childhood problematic sexual behavior. Utilizing intensive group and individual therapy, Project SAFeR seeks to rehabilitate low risk juvenile offenders between the ages of 10-12, preventing future acts. The first class of juveniles graduated the comprehensive 18 week program in the Fall.

COMBATING DWI

In 2015, more than 4,200 cases of Driving While Intoxicated were filed with our office, including 28 cases of Intoxication Manslaughter/Assault. While more high profile crimes grab the headlines, DWIs continue to be one of the offenses most plaguing our community, with an alarming number of drivers testing at two or three times the legal limit or higher.

One way we may reduce the problem of drunk driving is by educating drivers about the realities of the offense, and holding the offenders responsible for the damage they cause. We have increased the frequency of our No Refusal weekends, which represent a partnership between Tarrant County law enforcement agencies through which anyone stopped for suspected impaired driving who refuses to take a breath test instead is subject to a court-ordered blood test. These tests provide scientific evidence necessary to ensure drunk drivers are held accountable, and the high visibility of the weekends are an active deterrent for potential drivers. In November, CDA Wilson was proud to serve as the Honorary Chair of the 2015 Walk Like MADD event in Fort Worth, and we will continue our aggressive pursuit of those who needlessly endanger lives by committing this senseless, selfish offense.

LEADING BY EXAMPLE

Organizational Structure & Efficiency

CHIEF OF STAFF DIVISION

This new division is the first formal organizational structure for the administrative responsibilities of the office. It encompasses 34% of CDA employees, and has oversight of the budget, human resources, facilities, Victim Advocates, community outreach, and communications capabilities. Coordinating these previously siloed departments into an organized team allowed for an orderly distribution of responsibilities, creating a more efficient and effective result.

CONVICTION INTEGRITY UNIT

Our new Conviction Integrity program is another first for this County, and one of only a handful like it in the nation. Designed to reexamine past cases as warranted, the unit is at work currently on its first in-depth case review with the National Innocence Project. As forensic science continues to evolve, our Conviction Integrity and Post Conviction units are working closely with the Texas Forensic Sciences Commission and regional labs to stay at the forefront of how new discoveries may impact criminal justice procedures in our county.

SPECIAL VICTIMS UNIT

A top priority for this office is to increase awareness for, and the protection of, the most vulnerable among us — the children, elderly and disabled. The creation of our new Special Victims Unit has allowed a critical focus on prosecuting violent crimes against members of these three groups. Our specialized SVU prosecutors and investigators are sought out for training requests and special prosecutions around the state.

EMPLOYEE DEVELOPMENT

We continue to stress the importance of professional development opportunities to ensure that our ACDAs, investigators, and staff remain the best in the state. Our Misdemeanor Chief and Deputy Chief actively train attorneys statewide, and prepare continuing legal education projects for our office. We've developed an internal practicum series through which our junior attorneys receive regular individualized evaluation and advice from our more senior ACDAs, raising the bar on the skills they are able to bring to bear prosecuting on behalf of the State.

WHITE COLLAR/PUBLIC INTEGRITY UNIT

In addition to strengthening our focus on the financial exploitation of the elderly, this unit has welcomed a Texas Department of Insurance-funded ACDA and Investigator, which for the first time allows us to investigate and prosecute insurance fraud at a highly specialized level in our county.

Community Relations & Communications

CDA Wilson and CDA employees meet regularly with dozens of community organizations and agencies to hear concerns and share goals for the future. Early in the year, we implemented the Speakers on the Road program, which makes CDA employee experts available as potential speakers on more than 60 topics, ranging from cyber-bullying to identity theft to domestic abuse. By the end of the year, speakers from this program had participated in 166 events around the county.

In October, CDA Wilson and CDA employees participated in more than 50 neighborhood events around Tarrant County to celebrate National Night Out, an annual community-building campaign that promotes enhanced relationships between neighborhoods and law enforcement. In each neighborhood, our attorneys, investigators, and staff were impressed by the willingness of citizens to work with their neighbors to create a renewed sense of community security.

Inspired by this outreach, 97% of CDA employees now participate in a community group or activity, and CDA Wilson has created the first Citizen Advisory Committee for the CDA's office. This group, which meets quarterly, is comprised of community representatives from all areas of the county, and all ethnic and income groups, and will bring to the table the issues closest to the hearts of their individual communities. As they say in football, the best offense is often a strong defense, and it is by law-abiding citizens working together to educate our youth, build trusted relationships, and demand accountability that we can make our neighborhoods the safest they have ever been.

We have also sought to improve our methods of communication with residents of the county by developing new tools to encourage an ongoing dialogue. In addition to this Annual Report, we publish a quarterly CDA newsletter, "The Docket." Both publications are new for this office. A renewed CDA website (cda.tarrantcounty.com) was launched last year, along with new Facebook (facebook.com/TarrantCountyDA) and Twitter (twitter.com/TarrantCountyDA) accounts, each updated regularly with information on our trials, services, and activities, and all with the intent to inspire conversations about the services your CDA's office provides. We are also reviewing and revising all external communications, such as department brochures, to ensure they provide the most up-to-date and relevant information to assist citizens.

Each of the bodies, including the remains of two infants, had been entrusted with Johnson over a period of many months to prepare and arrange for cremation.
