MIGRATION TRAILS WESTWARD:

John Anthony Caruso, in his exciting book, The Appalachian Frontier: America's First Surge Westward, (The Bobbs-Merrill Co., Inc., New York, Publishers; 1959), traces the migration of our pioneer English, Scotch-Irish, German and French Huguenot ancestors west into the lands of the Ohio, Cumberland, Tennessee and Mississippi basins between 1750 and 1800. Many excellent maps and a detailed bibliography make this work of great interest to genealogists. Among the newspapers used by Mr. Caruso, an assistant professor of history at West Virginia University, are the following:

Kentucky Commonwealth, 1834
Kentucky Gazette, 1788-1789
Knoxville Gazette, 1791-1795
Maryland Journal, 1787
North Carolina Gazette, 1775
Pennsylvania Gazette, 1729
South Carolina Gazette, 1760-1762
Virginia Gazette, 1780
Western World, 1806

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Of these newspapers we have only the Virginia Gazette, 1736-1780, on microfilm in the library.)

DECEMBER, 1960, ACTIVITIES OF THE FORT WORTH GENEALOGICAL SOCIETY:

The Fort Worth Genealogical Society presented the Fort Worth Public Library's Genealogy and Local History Department with a pretty aluminum Christmas tree (which can be used again next year). Besides books and maps, a total of $28.00 in cash was put on the tree to be used by the department to add to their genealogical collection. Donors are Mrs. Buford Curtis, Mr. T. Y. Collins, Mrs. J. P. Agerton, Mrs. Mayme Corley, Mrs. William Watts, Mrs. Edna Perry Deckler, Mr. Jack Hodge, Mrs. Abby Moran, (all of Fort Worth, Texas); and Mrs. David C. Gracy of Austin, Texas; Mrs. Phyllis Phillips of Edinburg, Texas; Mrs. B. E. Elkins of Cuba, New Mexico; and Mrs. J. H. Dulaney of Mart, Texas.

The society also gave the library the two reels of Texas Marriage Records copied by Miss Marion Day Mullins; the society is selling this set of two reels, covering 26 Texas Counties, for $25.00 postpaid. A complete list of the counties and dates of the records are in the December, 1960, issue of The Genealogical Society Bulletin, our monthly publication.

FORT WORTH GENEALOGICAL SOCIETY CHARTER MEMBER PUBLISHES BOOK!

E. Charles Hinckley, 3632 West Fuller, Fort Worth 15, Texas, has created a labor of love, a family history of his family, Hinckley Heritage & History. He not only collected all the data and references and wrote the history and made a fine index, but as Benjamin Franklin did in his time, Mr. Hinckley actually printed and published the book by himself.

This book gives the genealogy of the Hinckley family in England of Kent County and in America. Mr. Hinckley does not pretend to have the final say on Hinckley genealogy; he humbly asks, "Any comments, corrections, or additions...will be greatly appreciated by the author."

By sending $5.00 and making an application in writing for membership to Mrs. David C. Gracy, 2509 Harris Blvd., Austin, Texas, you have an opportunity to become a charter member of this new state-wide society, the Texas State Genealogical Society. The society plans to publish a limited edition of their quarterly, beginning in March with a Board of Editors well-known in the genealogical circles of the Southwest. Plans are also being made to hold an Institute of Genealogy and Local History in Austin this summer, using the Texas State Archives and many places of research in our state capitol. Amateurs and professionals may apply for membership.

HELP FOR EVERYONE WHO WISHES TO DO HIS OWN GENEALOGICAL RESEARCH:

Every person interested in tracing the history of his family can be helped by subscribing to THE GENEALOGICAL HELPER, published by the Everton Publishers, 526 North Main Street, Logan, Utah. The Editor, George B. Everton, offers this quarterly publication for $2.50 per year. Among the many features of this quarterly that will help not only amateur but also professional genealogists is the annual EXCHANGE EDITION published every September. This September issue of THE GENEALOGICAL HELPER gives the names and addresses of genealogists all over the world and list the families they are doing research on.

If you are just starting out and want to get immediate results you can go to the nearest public library with a genealogical section, or better still, subscribe and get your own copy of this Exchange Edition, and look in the index for the names of families that you are interested in. Then, by merely sitting down and writing to these people (enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope), you will soon be meeting by mail kith and kin all over the country.

If a particular name that you are interested in is not in the index, you can obtain back issues of the quarterly and check these indexes for a researcher on your family. If this fails, you can remedy the situation by sending in your own family history data to be published in the next annual Exchange Edition for a small fee.

Ye olde editor has found more help over the years from writing to people named in THE GENEALOGICAL HELPER than from any other source. When you do research for years and reach a point where you can find little information to add to your pedigree chart on your own, the HELPER extends a friendly hand with no contempt for your ignorance or past mistakes in the field of research and helps you to help yourself and others to trace and prove genealogy.

"If you wish to appear agreeable in genealogical societies, you must consent to be taught many things which you know already."
--Lavater & Deckler.

HOW TO START YOUR FAMILY HISTORY:

"It would seem only logical that in the very beginning the new-comer to genealogical research would want to know whether anyone had done before the very thing he is now about to do. Start with yourself, in your own home and locality, with your own people. In this way only will you know that a proper foundation has been laid for future research."

MARCH, 1961, ACTIVITIES OF THE FORT WORTH GENEALOGICAL SOCIETY:

At the regular meeting of the Fort Worth Genealogical Society the last Monday evening in March, March 27, 1961, Miss June Wasserman, head of the Business and Technology division of the Fort Worth Public Library gave a paper on "Documents for Genealogists." She discussed the various government publications deposited in the Fort Worth Public Library which contain material of interest to genealogists. A check list of these publications was distributed to members and guests at the meeting.

Chalmers W. Hutchison, first vice-president of the Fort Worth Genealogical Society and of the Texas State Genealogical Society, was introduced by the President, Mrs. Edna Perry Deckler. Mrs. Deckler announced that Mr. Hutchison is the new President of the Texas Society, Sons of the American Revolution, and in addition to being the State President of S. A. GENEALOGICAL COMPENSATIONS AND DISAPPOINTMENTS:

--Contributed by Mrs. Tom Warfield, 1023 - 13th Avenue,
Nampa, Idaho

"I write letters, asking questions concerning our WARFIELD family in America. Before the next mail arrives I begin to anxiously await answers. Time drags. It begins to seem it was at least a week since I sent out my letters. The day doesn't really begin until the mail man comes...but if I didn't get any answers, it also ends there. Not receiving answers to my letters is really the biggest disappointment I have in this 'business.' If your letters are answered, hope lives on.

The compensations of doing genealogical research are many. The chief of them all is to be able to help some other searcher find his missing link.

Coming home last summer on the bus from our Family Reunion, I mentioned to the lady sitting next to me that I am Warfield hunting, and told her of our attempts to organize everyone with a Warfield line into a big family clan organization. She gave me the name and address of some Warfields in her home town and by mail I was able to put this particular family in contact with a correspondent of mine with a similar Warfield line.

I am particularly interested in SAMUEL NEWTON WARFIELD, born circa 1819/1820, in Licking County, Ohio, but I would welcome correspondence with anyone with any WARFIELD line."

COMPLAINTS TO THE EDITOR: JUSTIFIED AND UNJUSTIFIED:

- 1) Mrs. Brock Burton, 423 Louisiana, Corpus Christi, Texas, writes that in the February, 1961, BULLETIN, we mis-spelled her name as Mrs. Brook Burton.
- 2) A lady, who will remain unnamed wrote to complain that she did not receive her March BULLETIN until two days after the March 27th meeting, and she implied that this is not too good a way to do business. We replied that we did not mail out March BULLETINS to anyone who had not paid their membership dues for 1961. (Hers were received March 28th!).
- 3) This lady did not complain but she had a right to as we also mis-spelled her name in the February BULLETIN. No.221, should read, "Miss Eula M. Haskew, 1004 Main Ave., Brownwood, Texas."
- 4) Another lady who shall remain un-named wrote in that she is sure we should have listed her as a member in 1957, as she distinctly remembers sending in $2 in 1958, asking it be applied to 1957 dues. (This is impossible as the founding member dues from April 22, 1957, to Dec. 31, 1957, were $1. Anyone joining after December 31, 1957, is not registered as a founding (charter) member of the Fort Worth Genealogical Society.)

HOW TO BEGIN YOUR FAMILY HISTORY:

--An informal review of a study course by Edna Perry Deckler

As an old newspaper writer advises the cub reporter, "Get the five 'W's'--Who, What, Where, When, and Why;" so we advise the person who wants to begin his family history. If he will begin with himself and write down all the vital statistics he knows on himself and his parentage, he has begun.

You never can get too much information as every scrap of data will be valuable to you as you go along. It will help you to eliminate families that have no direct connection with your own. It will enable you to help others and to exchange information with anyone working on the same family genealogy.

One of the hardest facts to accept and to have others accept is that all family tradition is not the gospel truth. Even if Grandma did swear that you are kin to the fifth President of the United States or to Henry the VIII doesn't make it so. But don't be discouraged if research pops the family tradition balloon. As the late Hubert Hammond Crané remarked, "The ones with the grandest pedigrees are those who do the most research." If you look long enough, you will find many names on your family tree to be proud of and if you go far enough back into some of your lines you will probably find a few things you'd rather forget.

Start the note-taking habit. When talking to the old-timers at a family reunion or when talking to Great Aunt Susy on the telephone, keep pad and pencil handy. Don't trust to memory. Read old family letters and anything you don't understand or anyone whom you cannot identify, make a note and question any of your living kith or kin by mail or telephone.

Gilbert Doane's Searching For Your Ancestors, (Minneapolis: University of Minnesota Press, 1960, 198 pp., $3.95), will be one of the best investments you can make. Mr. Doane has a lot of excellent advice to get you started out on the right foot.

Genealogy can become a great interest in your life at little expense. For the cost of stamps and paper and the expense of visiting a good library with a Local History and Genealogy Division you can accumulate a proven pedigree with enough interesting anecdotes to write a best-seller.

Keep a list of where you obtain all the information you get. It is a good idea not only to list the name of the book you copied from, but the library in which the book is located, the author, volume number, date of publication, publisher, etc.

Trace a whole family, not just your direct ancestor, as the names of the children and various husbands and wives will help you to positively identify your ancestor as you trace his migration across the country.

If you want personal help, join a genealogical society where you can meet and discuss first hand your problems of tracing your family history.

SUGGESTIONS ON HOW TO SEARCH COURT HOUSE RECORDS

by J. W. Jagoe III, JAGOE ABSTRACT COMPANY, Denton, Texas

Court house records, like many others, are not infallible sources of information. They require application, effort and time. Therefore, do not expect a County Clerk to search for information, as he is usually understaffed and disinclined to pay much attention to written inquiries because of lack of time. He will therefore usually be happy to turn your request over to a local abstractor if you request that he do so.

However, you can do your own searching if you happen to be in the place where records are kept, and the clerk will usually be happy to advise you.

The records usually consulted and ordinarily available are as follows:

1. County Clerk's Office.
 - Deed Records--these include several other items--
 - a. Deed of Trusts (mortgage)
 - b. Release Records
 - c. Cattle Brand Records
 - d. Miscellaneous Records
 - e. Commissioners' Court Minutes
 - f. Lists of Jurors paid
 - g. Execution Records
 - h. Abstract of Judgment
 - i. Notary Public bond records
 - j. Marriage licenses
 - k. Birth Records
 - l. Death Records
 - m. Power of Attorney
 - n. Patent Records
 - o. List of cattle killed on railroads
2. Probate Records--probably in the County Clerk's Office
 - a. Will Records
 - b. Bond Records
 - c. Inventory & Appraisement Records
 - d. Index to probate papers
3. District Court Records
 - a. Index of Plaintiffs
 - b. Index of Defendants
 - c. Surveyors Field Notes
 - d. Jury Records
4. Tax Records--Tax rolls

Abstract of Surveys

There is no certain way to make a search, but I shall try to outline some of the most accessible records and the easiest way to use them.

The first of these records to be considered is that of deeds. In each County Clerk's office there should be an alphabetical index of the names of persons selling land--this is known as a direct index.

The index of persons buying land is known as an indirect index--also alphabetically arranged. It has been the custom to make indices to cover certain periods of time, for instance from 1870 to 1890. This, then, may require a search in several different volumes. Be certain to cover as many years as possible as people came to the court house at rare intervals and might have filed four or five deeds on the same piece of land at one time.

In most Counties affidavits of heirship are recorded in the Deed Records and depending on the County Clerk are sometimes indexed in two ways; that is, by the maker of the affidavit "John Jones re the Heirs of Mary Doe," or it may be indexed as "Heirs of Mary Doe." In either case it would be wise to run the index first under the "D" section in both the direct and reverse indices, and then under the names of old acquaintances who might be familiar with the family so that they could make sworn statements.

Of course, in some cases, Releases and other miscellaneous items also appear in the deed records. Very often the Clerks in early days made errors or omitted entering items in the index system, so if you find one item it is wise to turn through the volume page by page where you have found your first entry.

All other records in the County Clerk's office can be searched in the same manner, that is by examining the various indices.

Cattle Brands were recorded in order to prove ownership, so that only one person could claim under a certain brand--check these carefully. This record is usually alphabetized.

The miscellaneous records were used to record items such as partnership agreements and quite often the sale of property such as a gin or store might show only as a bill of sale in the miscellaneous records.

The Commissioners Court Minutes will probably be the hardest records to examine as the early records were sketchy and poorly indexed. This means you may have to pick out the minutes of a particular time and read them in hope of gleaning some information that will give you a lead.

The lists of Jurors for various cases in the County Court can sometimes be located. This may be in the payment records, and of course will not be indexed alphabetically.

The execution record is not what you may think. When a person sued someone for debt and obtained a judgment he could subsequently secure an order for a sheriff or constable to seize or levy on the debtors property and sell it in satisfaction of the debt. Or if a person acted as bondsman for a man accused of a criminal action, the bondsman might be called on to pay the bond. In that case the court would issue the order of execution and if the bondsman could not pay in money his lands or property could sometimes be levied on and sold to satisfy the amount due on the bond. So examine the execution records carefully on both indices, that is for the persons securing the execution or against whom it may have been secured.

The Abstract of Judgment records are similar to the execution records so examine that record closely. Do not be proud and say that your ancestor never owed money or was sued, because although he may not have, he might have believed that he had been cheated in some transaction and refused to pay and then he may have tried to assist some one by co-signing or endorsing a note so that when the maker of the note defaulted in payment, the endorser could only collect by allowing the creditor to sue both parties and then buying the judgment from the creditors and levying on the makers property.

Powers of attorney were used extensively in early days because of absentee ownership. Be certain to search this record as some member of your family may have had an interest in land but delegated the right to make deeds, etc., to someone other than a member of the family. Deeds by attorneys in fact were sometimes indexed by the attorneys' names instead of by the actual owner.

Patent Records (land grants) should be examined carefully as many patents were issued to persons who purchased rights from the original grantees to whom the State or Republic may have issued a grant. For instance, a grant of 320 acres of land may have been issued to G. W. McGlothlin. Now it was then his job to locate this 320 acres and have it surveyed. Then the patent to this particular tract would be issued. However, suppose that in the particular area he wanted land that he could not find a single tract of that size. Then he would have to take one tract of 150 acres for which he would obtain a patent. This would leave 170 acres still due him by virtue of the grant. He would then sell the right to the 170 acres and some other person would attempt to locate this much land still unpatented. Perhaps this second person could locate only 80 acres of desirable land. He then would have it surveyed and make application to have a patent issued on that tract to him as assignee of the person to whom the grant was originally issued. This would leave 90 acres still unlocated, and on which no patent had been issued. This 90 acres residue might then be transferred and parts of it located and patented in two or three different tracts. Thus it would be possible to have several surveys in the name of the original grantee of the State but in the patent on each there would be different names appearing as assignee of the original person to whom the State first issued the grant. Now in some counties there have been lists compiled of those persons who purchased these residual rights in original grants. Inquiry regarding this should usually be made of the tax assessors, as there was a great deal of work of this nature done by the Works Progress Administration. There is also a State abstract of all lands on which patents have been issued; this list will give the name under which the Patent was issued and the actual grantee; it will also show the basis of the grant. These lists are only partially alphabetized, so it will be necessary to check each one very carefully.

In preparing this paper I did some research in the County Clerk's office, and found among the many volumes one titled "Cattle Killed on Railroads." The period of time covered by this is, of course, limited from the construction date of the railroad to the present, but it might be that your ancestor had some prize cattle killed by a railroad accident, or he might have witnessed such an accident.

Records of assumed names for business purposes another source to search. Your forebearer might have been in partnership with another man and this would appear in this volume.

Notary bond records were not always indexed so your search may result in turning through the record page by page. In case you are forced to use this record, be sure to read the names of the bondsmen who signed with the notary, as commercial bonds were not used in the early days. You might find the name you are searching for recorded there.

Marriage license records are usually indexed but suppose that you do not find the name you want. Try to remember the names of friends--look up the record of their licenses as your ancestor might have signed as a witness on that license. Or perhaps the minister, or Justice of Peace who officiated might be the one you are trying to find.

Probate Records are the records of the various estates handled by courts. There is, of course, an alphabetical index of cases. But for the very early records you will usually need to consult a volume called "Index to Probate Papers." In the cases where a person died and left a will, his name will be listed; then you can read and perhaps copy his will which may list the names of other members of the family. Collect the names of all members of the family you are tracing. If a break occurs in the chain, the descendants of these others named may be able to supply information that will enable you to go forward or backward with your search.

In the case where a person died intestate, that is without a will, the estate of his minor children might have required court action--again, watch for the family name as the estate of as many as five children might be indexed as "Joseph Marsh, et al, minors" without listing the names of the other four, although their names would appear in the actual record.

In checking the probate records list all of the names that appear as you will probably find that neighbors acted as witnesses, bondsmen or commissioners for partition. The descendants of these neighbors might be able to supply missing data. In one instance while trying to establish that a man who was nearing eighty years of age was the only child born to his parents, we located a neighbor who could make an affidavit of the facts. This neighbor's father's name had shown up in the description of the property which called for the neighbor's corner.

In searching the tax records the first thing you will probably need is a pair of coveralls, as in many counties these records, if still available, have been stored in either the attic or basement of the court house. However, in the tax collector's office you should find an abstract of surveys which will sometimes be very helpful. Of course you will need to know the name of the survey in which your ancestor owned land, then turning to this survey you should find a list showing the names of persons rendering property for taxes in any given year.

Should it happen that you do not know the name of the survey, then you would resort to the tax rolls which are ordinarily alphabetized. However, there seems to have been a recent ruling which allows the collectors to dispose of all tax rolls prior to a certain year, so that the record you want may have been destroyed. If this is the case your next step would be to secure a map of the area where your ancestor lived. For instance he might have lived 4 miles northwest of Smithfield--by examining a map which shows the various surveys you would find perhaps twelve surveys which would fall within the area. By searching the abstract of surveys of each of these twelve, you might be able to locate the name for which you are looking. Perhaps you remember the place as being 8 miles from a known point, but was it really that far? As children are so often apt to do, we probably measured time instead of distance, and exaggerated. Remember that in some cases the old ox teams would travel only three miles a day. So check the area in between the known point and where you thought the land was located.

As you do your searching try to enjoy it and learn how our forefathers lived. They were usually pretty plain spoken, as is often found in their wills. Read these wills--they will furnish laughs and also give us some insight as to how they regarded the people mentioned in their wills. A good example of this is the following excerpt from a will, in which some names have been changed:

I am loathe to make any discernment among my three beloved sons but Robert don't need it and Tom don't want it and I therefore will and bequeath to my son Henry my law library and office furniture to be had and held by him in fee simple.

To my son Robert Smith I will and bequeath my gold watch together with the gold chain I have worn so long. He may be gracious enough to give to Henry the gold watch I gave him.

There was one joint will made by a husband and wife which reads, "All property real and personal is bequeath to the longest liver."

In the inventories we find such items listed as "Three hounds (one at large) value $25.00." This indicates that the man was apparently a sportsman.

"Genealogical prudence is the knowledge of printed materials to be sought, and those to be shunned."

TEXAS STATE GENEALOGICAL SOCIETY'S ANNUAL MEETING:

Mrs. Edna Perry Deckler, 2528 University Drive, South, Fort Worth 9, Texas, the founder and president of the Texas State Genealogical Society, has announced that the annual meeting of the Texas State Genealogical Society will be held in Fort Worth, Texas, Monday, November 27, 1961. She suggests that you mark your calendars now to attend this all-day meeting. Members and guests of the Texas State Genealogical Society will be invited to attend a luncheon that day given by the Fort Worth Genealogical Society. The luncheon speaker will be Carr P. Collins, Jr., president of the Local History and Genealogy Society of Dallas, who will speak on "Americans of Royal Descent."

MAIL-ORDER GENEALOGISTS:

You can stay at home and search the world for ancestors by using the postal services here and abroad. You should write for every bookstore catalog available and keep these in your personal library for reference. As you continue to find new family lines in your research, you should search these book catalogs to see if a family history has already been written on that line.

(All authorities say you should buy a book rather than try to borrow a copy and copy it yourself. We tried copying an early edition of E. Kay Kirkham's ABC of American Genealogy which sold for $1.25 at the time. We used $1.75 worth of paper copying it!)

SOME VENABLES OF ENGLAND AND AMERICA:

Mrs. Allen Brown, 506 East Fourth Street, Cincinnati, Ohio, has published Some Venables of England and America: And Brief Accounts of Families Into Which Certain Venables Married, (Kinderton Press, 636 Dixie Terminal Building, Cincinnati, Ohio; 1961). This well-indexed 463 pages of Venable family history is "primarily concerned with the ancestors and descendants of Thomas Venable of Burlington County, New Jersey, who married Sarah Wallis in 1729; and more specifically with the descendants of his grandson, William Venable, who emigrated to Warren County, Ohio, in 1816-7." Mrs. Brown gives all her sources of data which makes this excellent genealogy a scientific paper as well as a source of material for other genealogists interested in the same geographical areas here and in Europe.

Among the other families discussed in this book are Adams, Aldersly, Allen, Antrim (Antram), Atkinson, Baird, Benbow, Bimel, Blois, Borradail (all spellings), Bowman, Brady, Brown, Cassairt, Clark, Colegrove, Collins, Coton, Croshaw, Davenport, De Venables, Ellinwood, Elton, Emley, Evans, Grosvenor, Harris, Hopkins, Hutchinson (Hutchinson, Hutchison), Jones, Kirby, Lee, Legh, Lippincott, Mainwaring, Paxton, Roberts, Shute, Simonton, Smith, Spellmeyer, Starr, Sutton, Tuckerman, Vater, Venable, Wallace, Wallis, White, Wilkins, and Wills. This book may be ordered from Mrs. Brown.

DESCENDANTS OF GEORGE HUBBARD, 1594-1960:

Irvin W. Hubbard, 1223 E. Weber Avenue, Stockton, California, has written Record of the Descendants of George Hubbard: One of the Founders of Wethersfield, Milford, and Guilford, Connecticut. He traces his line back to George Hubbard, born 1594; John Hubbard, born 1630; Isaac Hubbard, born 1667; Isaac Hubbard, born 1695; Isaac Hubbard, born 1730; Stephen Hubbard, born 1756; Sylvester Hubbard, born 1785; Jerri Hubbard, born 1808; George Hubbard, born 1836; to his father--FRANCIS HUBBARD, born 1862. Mr. Hubbard uses a number system in his book. He gives everyone mentioned a number and indexes his material in such a manner that it is easy to find data on any of the Hubbard kin. This book may be ordered from the author.

THE KANSAS CITY GENEALOGIST:

Mrs. Darlene R. Appell, editor of The Kansas City Genealogist, and Julia Carey Luke, 1310 Bryson St., Independence, Missouri, have published the Clay County, Missouri, Marriage Records, 1822-1842, which lists over 800 marriages and nearly 1800 names--including some parents, guardians, etc. This well-indexed book may be ordered for $2.50, from the authors.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR:

Charles H. Young, Route 1, Box 274, Grapevine, Texas, writes, "My interest in compiling my family history was inspired over fifteen years ago by a letter written in 1929, by a distant cousin, ISAAC NEWTON YOUNG. As you will see from the copy enclosed, it is full of genealogical information concerning several families, and I have found it to be particularly accurate. I think this 'Abingdon Letter'--as it is called--might prove of some value to other researchers...and it might also help me with my problem of trying to find out what happened to the descendants of two of the five sons--Robert Young and Ezekiel Young who went to Green Co., Ky., and whose children 'drifted farther west!'"

THE "ABINGDON LETTER" BY ISAAC NEWTON YOUNG:

--Contributed by Charles H. Young, Route 1, Box 274, Grapevine, Texas.

(Written by Isaac Newton Young (1853-1941), at Abingdon, Virginia, about 1929.)

"While over in Grayson some one asked me to write some more about old times and old people and unthoughtedly I promised to do so. So many of the older generation have passed away and are almost forgotten I hardly know where to commence.

I believe for the back ground of this letter I will tell something of the Young and McMillan generation and where they come from.

Ezekiel was our great grandfather's name. He was born in Bristol, England, I do not know the date of his birth. Having no money he stole his passage on a ship to this country. He was afterwards sold for his passage money. He fought in the battle of Fort Duquesne where General Braddock was defeated and was afterwards hired to hunt deer and skin them in the Saltworks Valley, Va. Just what was done with the hides history does not say.

He earned his first horse this way. He afterwards drifted to Grayson county intending to stay only as the game was plentiful, but cupid shot a dart that struck home and he fell a victim. He married a woman by the name of White Head. He settled on Fox Creek, lived and died there. He was buried in what was known as the Thomas graveyard. I have been told his tomb stones are still there.

He had five sons as follows: Robert, Joseph, William, Ezekiel and Thomas. Robert and Ezekiel went to Kentucky and settled on Green River in Green county. They died there. The children all drifted farther West. William had one son who went West of the Rocky Mountains.

My grandfather, Joseph Young, married Lucy Perkins and settled at the old homestead where I lived and he died there. His children's names were: William, Timothy, Fielden, Jessie, Ezekiel and Eli, Jestén and Elizabeth.

William married Charity Baker and settled on the ridge near where Bob Parsons now lives. I think W. A. Anderson owns the old home site. William was the father of the late Willy G. Young.

Fielden married Irena Phipps. She was raised on Bridle Creek and is related to the Phipps there. He settled where Joe Parsons now lives. They had a large family.

Jessie, Ezekiel and Eli married sisters, daughters of Col. Andrew McMillan, of Nathans Creek, N. C. There was one other girl. She married Nathaniel Senter and lived where Wiley Senter lived.

Timothy Young married a Miss Duvall and settled on Helton and some of his generation are still living there.

Jestin married William Baldwin, a Baptist preacher, and settled in Ashe county, N. C.

Elizabeth married John Baker father of Morgan Baker, of Grassy Creek, N. C., and settled on Bear Branch where L. Conklin now lives.

The Fox Creek Youngs came through the Young families some way, I am not able to give the connection.

Grandfather Young pattened (sic) a large amount of Government land and gave all his sons a farm.

William Young had a daughter, Lucy, who married John H. Perkins and settled where Charlie Phipps now lives. They had three sons and one daughter. He also had a daughter who married Andrew Fields and settled in Alleghany county, N. C. They had a family of boys, the late W. C. Fields being one of them. Joe Fields is also a son. Frank is still living.

The offspring from the five sons of Joseph Young numbered fifty. This is forty-nine more than the same number of parents would show today.

Of Ezekiel's family one is living, Mrs. Wolfe, of Adwolfe, Va. Of Fielden's family one remains. Of William's family none are alive. I am the only one left of Eli's family. The Greears of Troutdale are descendants of the Young family as also are the McCoy Halsey children.

Uncle Jessie Young was the old one of the five boys. He was never known to weary, took life easy, and many are the odd sayings attributed to him. He had a mania for sticking fire to every thing dry enough to burn and many are the panels of fence that were burned by his carelessness. On one occasion he let the fire get in the line fence between him and Ezekiel and burned one hundred panels of rail fence. When asked about it he said he thought it would leave a nice place to put together. He said sometimes he thought about putting fire to his house just to see the rats run out.

In years long ago it was the custom for the men to meet and muster. The muster ground for Wilson District was in the Allen Wells bottom. On one occasion they had met to muster. My father, Eli Young, was a boy about 15 years old. The crowd was coming down the bottom. Uncle Jessie was going up the bottom and met the crowd. Eli was walking with a girl for the first time. Uncle Jessie stopped and looked at him and said, "Well, Eli, I think you have riz before the sap." I imagine the sap went down before any frost had fallen.

He used to come over home and tell me the happenings when he was a boy. He showed me the milking place and said some time when the cows came up from the range a big black bear would be with them. He showed me where the old still house stood and said old grandfather Young had made hundreds of gallons of brandy there.

My grandfather, Andrew McMillan, married and settled on Nathans Creek in Ashe county, N. C. His first wife was Jocie Fields, I do not remember her. He married a Petty the second time, I think. I have been told both wives died of cancer, I know the last one did.

He had four sons and four daughters. Fields married a Faw. Andy married a Gentry. Alex married Nancy Reeves. Jessie married Rebecca Reeves.

Uncle Jessie had three daughters. Two of them married the two Osborne brothers of Alleghany county, N. C. The youngest married Wiley Reeves, of Sparta, N. C. I think two of the girls are now widows. All the boys are dead.

John A. McMillan, of Mouth of Wilson, is a son of Col. Fields McMillan, and Mattie Phipps, of Bridle Creek, is a daughter. They are the only surviving children.

Well I can say like the Queen of Sheba said after she made that wonderful visit, "The half has not been told." I am like the preacher said when he told the congregation he was going to preach on the Devil and was full of his subject. I am full of my subject, but the fire has gone out and it is bed time, so I will say like the lady said she did when she put the nickle in the contribution box, she kissed it good bye. So I will kiss the readers good bye.

I. N. Young

TEXIANS OF GERMAN DESCENT

by Edna Perry Deckler, president, Frances Cooke Van Zandt Chapter, Daughters of the Republic of Texas

If you are a descendant of any of the men listed below, you are eligible for membership, (if acceptable to the members), in the Sons of the Republic of Texas, or the Daughters of the Republic of Texas. This list of German names was copied by Moritz Tiling, a history teacher in Houston, Texas, from the muster rolls of the men who fought for the independence of Texas in the State Archives at Austin, and listed in Mr. Tiling's book, History of the German Element in Texas..., which he published in Houston in 1913. Of course, you do not have to be of German descent to belong to the Sons or Daughters of the Republic of Texas, but we are particularly interested here in listing Texians of German descent.

As early as 1821, when Dr. James Long, of Natchez, Mississippi, came to Texas with his expedition of 53 men who were captured by the Mexicans at Goliad, there were Germans in Texas. With Dr. Long were Eduard Hanstein, Joseph Dirksen, Ernst von Rosenberg, Wilhelm Miller, Carl Cuans, Gaspar Porton, and August Blaccher, according to Rudolph Leopold Biesele, (THE HISTORY OF THE GERMAN SETTLEMENTS IN TEXAS, 1831-1861, Austin, 1930, Von Boeckmann-Jones Co.). In this same year, 1821, Dr. Ralph W. Steen and Frances Donecker tell us, (OUR TEXAS, Austin, 1954 Revised edition, Steck Co.), "Stephen F. Austin took the steps which paved the way for the peaceful entrance of Americans into Texas. This peaceful occupation of the land succeeded where the armed expeditions had failed."

Stephen F. Austin's Colony records show that grants of land were made to Gabriel Strawsnider, John Keller, Peter Conrad, Francis Keller, F. W. Grassmeyer, John Dokanski, Abraham Darst, Charles Fordtran, Henry Thierwester, Charles A. Bettner, Joseph Biegel, John Peske, Peter H. Fullenwider, John D. H. Varrelmann, Peter Pieper, Samuel Wolfenbarger, and Solomon Rumpfeldt. These records also show that Jacob Lentz applied for a land grant.

And Biesele tells us also that the Mexican government issued grants to J. Becker of Bevil Settlement and to F. Swetenburg of San Augustine.

Moritz Tiling found the following list of German land owners, recorded prior to October, 1839, in the archives of the General Land Office of Texas in Austin:

- 1) Andreas Baldinger, 2) Charles F. Baeumlein, 3) Jacob Blum, 4) Jonathan Buhn, 5) P. Bugler, 6) Bernhard Cerchner, 7) Daniel Cruger, 8) J. M. Cruger, 9) John Cruse, 10) Carl F. Dresler, 11) C. C. G. Eberling, 12) C. B. The memoirs of Robert Kleberg, Sr., on loan to us from his descendant, Alice Kleberg Bass (Mrs. E. W. Bass, 2925 Sixth Avenue, Fort Worth 10, Texas--a past president of the Frances Cooke Van Zandt Chapter, Daughters of the Republic of Texas), includes the names of the settlers of William Bartels, Damke (George Dannker), John Heinike, George Herder, John Reinermann, and R. D. Stoelje.

Both Tiling and Biesele list other Texians of German descent. If you have a German ancestor who came to Texas in the early days, may we suggest you check the work of these authors. Another fine authority on Germans in Texas is the present County Treasurer of Comal County, New Braunfels, Texas, Mr. Oscar Haas, who is currently writing articles on Comal County's Part in the Civil War in weekly installments in the New Braunfels Herald.

✓ ENGLISH GENEALOGY:

Anthony Richard Wagner's English Genealogy, (Oxford at the Clarendon Press, 1960), is an analysis of the social, economic, and historical background of England, with much emphasis on the "probable" genealogy of British peers. Wagner makes it very clear that social "caste" in England is a sometimes thing and he repeatedly stresses that families slide up and down and sideways on the social scale.

Of much interest to Americans of British descent is the clearly defined explanations of titles such as "Esquire, Gentlemen, etc." In England the term "Merchant" applied to one who traded overseas and not to one who engaged in trade at home; the latter were called "tradesmen."

Wagner asserts, "There was never a time when Americans were not interested in their English origins, as enquiries made of the heralds since the seventeenth century prove."

EARLY SOUTHWEST VIRGINIA FAMILIES:

Elizabeth Kelly Allison, Auburn, Alabama, has written a book on Early Southwest Virginia Families: Families of Kelly, Smyth, Buchanan, Clark and Related Families of Edmondson, Keys, Beattie, Ryburn, McDonald. This lithoprinted 135 paged genealogy is well-indexed. Elizabeth Kelly Allison (Mrs. Fred Allison) has placed a D. A. R. chart showing her Kelly lineage--(1) William, (2) John, (3) Andrew, (4) John, to her father (5) William Keys Kelly; her Buchanan lineage--(1) Samuel, (2) Andrew, (3) Matthew, (4) William, to her grandmother (5), Elizabeth Buchanan, who married John Kelly (4); her Smyth lineage--(1) Eric, (2) Tobias, (3) Jonas, (4) John, (5) James Kincannon, to her mother (6) Annie Ryburn Smyth; and allied lines at the beginning of her book.

Among the other families discussed in the book are Allison, Brock, Byars, Campbell, Crow, Crowgey, Gibbony, Grant, Houston, Hutton, Kirkham, Lincoln, Logan, McClure, McKee, McSpadden, Moore, Orr, Pafford, Porterfield, Rambo, Robinson, Scott, Shugart, Stuart, Wornall, and Young. Mrs. Allison has placed an excellent bibliography at the end of her book to reference her work. This book may be ordered from the author.

GENEALOGY AND LOCAL HISTORY:

Genealogical Associates, 1417 Rosalie Street, Evanston 1, Illinois, has published an excellent textbook for genealogists, Genealogy and Local History: An Archival and Bibliographical Guide. It is the kind of book you would want to take with you when you go out into the field to do research or to your local library, as it lists sources of data for each state and for countries abroad, 3,437 sources!

This guide book has definite information for the beginner on how to prepare ancestral charts. Many beginners neglect to make pedigree charts of known information until they have been doing research for years, thus missing a positive aid to create a picture of known and unknown data in their mind and to place each kinsman in his proper place in order not to confuse the many cousins who will have identical names.

If you do not live near a good genealogical library, you can do your research by mail with the aid of this guide which shows where your best sources of information are located on any given state. You may order this book from Genealogical Associates for $5.00 postpaid.

"Every surname may be spelled in several ways. The researcher should try to know all of them. You may be proud of your family name--justly so--but do not imagine that it has always been spelled as it is now."--Everton & Rasmuson: The Improved How Book For Genealogists, (The Everton Publishers, 526 North Main St., Logan, Utah).

OHIO GENEALOGICAL RECORDS:

Miss Marie Dickore, 3411 Clifton Ave., A-6, Cincinnati 20, Ohio, the eminent Ohio genealogist, is offering for $5.00, the Census of Cincinnati, Ohio, 1817, and Hamilton County Ohio Voters' Lists For 1798 and 1799.

MAPS AS AN AID IN RESEARCH:

--Contributed by J. J. Crider, 3124 Fairview St., Fort Worth, Texas

To those who may travel in quest of information regarding an ancestor and when this travel takes one into States and Counties that are unfamiliar, a set of Topographical Maps of the area to be visited can be of much use.

Even the older deed records usually furnish sufficient information, so that the land on which the Ancestor lived, may be easily located. Often the location of the land was referenced as lying along a certain stream, or perhaps another permanent landmark was used. After surveys were made the land would be legally described using section, township and range.

Using a Topographical Map of the particular area, the approximate location of where the Ancestor lived can be determined. Also shown are Churches, Cemeteries, public and private roadways. Other items featured are section, township and range lines, names of streams, elevations and wooded areas. In short almost every object of a permanent or semi-permanent nature, such as a private dwelling, is shown.

In many cases the genealogist while visiting the lands of a fore-father may find other descendants still living in the area, or upon the same land. Much vital information can be found in this manner.

Topographical Maps may be purchased from private dealers, or directly from the U. S. Geological Survey, Washington 25, D. C. Prices are modest; the cost of a single map is about 30¢. Index maps are usually supplied free of charge. The index is a State Map giving the quadrangles and sections of which Topographical Maps are available.

GENEALOGICAL DATA ON THE CHEROKEE INDIANS:

Our good F. W. G. S. member, Clarence E. Moore, 557 So. Beach St., Fort Worth 5, Texas, writes us that you may order for $3.00, postpaid, a 75 page book of historical and genealogical data on the Cherokee Indians from the author, James Manford Carselowey, the Cherokee Historian, Post Office Box 156, Adair, Oklahoma. We understand that this is the second book printed on Cherokee families. The name of this book is Cherokee Pioneers; the first book by Mr. Carselowey is sold out.

WHAT'S MY LINEAGE?

THAXTON:

Monty C. Crow, Route 8, Box 696, Fort Worth, Texas, is interested in tracing the genealogy of the THAXTON family of Tennessee, Mississippi, Virginia, and Texas.

SMITH, CARTER:

Mrs. Lena Smith Todd, Route 1, Box 99, Shell Lake, Wisconsin, writes, "William and Catherine Smith were parents of Matthew Rankin Smith, who was born 4 Oct. 1809, Wash. Co., Pa., and died 1 Dec. 1883. In Tenn., he m. Ester A. Carter, b. 1 July 1814, Northfort, Waldo Co., Maine; d. 20 June 1865. They married 24 May 1832, in Ohio, and had 6 boys and 8 girls. Their eldest child was Isaac Smith, born in Ohio; the other 13 were all born in Wheeling, Indiana. Isaac's second child, Walter Hillman Smith, b. 17 Nov. 1858; d. 11 Feb. 1887, was my father." Mrs. Todd would like to hear from anyone working on this SMITH line.

HALL, HENRY:

Mrs. W. R. Eckhardt, Jr., 4522 Willowbend Blvd., Houston 35, Texas, is descended from one WILLIAM HALL who made a joint will with his wife, Elizabeth, in 1800 in Iredell Co., N. C. His first wife was Margaret _____ (?) and his dau, MARGARET HALL (b. 1755) married DAVID HENRY, Capt. in Am. Rev., in Rowan Co., N. C., in 1777; in 1800 they removed to Sumner Co., Tenn. She wants parents of WILLIAM HALL and surname of his first wife and parents of DAVID HENRY.

WYATT, COCHRUM:

Mrs. E. O. Shelton, 109 West High St., Eldon, Missouri, is trying to find the parents of her Nathaniel Wyatt, born in East Tenn., in 1805, married (probably) in Kentucky where his first son, Zachariah Wyatt, was born (do not know where in Ky.). Nathaniel removed to Jefferson Co., Illinois about 1830 and to Iowa in 1856. She has a marriage record of a NATHANIEL WYATT to BETSY COCHRUM in March 1826, in Todd Co., Ky., and is trying to prove that this is her Nathaniel.

BEMENT (BEAUMONT), CORYDON, PADDOCK:

Miss Daisy I. Paddock, 48 North Prospect Street, Oberlin, Ohio, writes, "I have for a number of years been tracing the family trees of both my father and mother (BEMENT), but am having some difficulty in tracking down the descendants of my grandfather, LORENZO CORYDON and his sisters, who came to Ohio from Conn. The Conn. Vital Records have the birth date and mother of my grandfather wrong--11 years too early and of the wrong mother. How such an error occurred is a problem, unless there was an earlier son by that name who died in infancy. I have traced his ancestors back to the first in this country, JOHN BEAUMONT, who, with his brother, WILLIAM, came from England on the boat Elizabeth. His first son, John, changed the family name to "Bement," and various descendants have spelled the name differently. I have also traced my father's family back to 1635, ROBERT PADDOCK, the first of the name in AMERICA."

WALKER:

Ruth Conaway Kendrick, 930 Park Drive, Hillsboro, Texas, is searching for data on her great, great grandfather, WELLS WALKER, born in 1789/1790, possibly in Georgia; he was living in Calhoun, Gordon Co., Ga., prior to 1850. She does not know his wife's name, but among his issue are Octavia Alexandria, Jane Porter, Pauline Napoleon, Vasti, Helena McKensey, Ferdinand and Henry.

HINCKLEY:

E. Charles Hinckley, 3632 West Fuller, Fort Worth 15, Texas, wants to know who were the parents of C. S. HINCKLEY, who operated the Hinckley & Co's Express which handled mail and express packages out of Denver to and from the Gold Field between May 1860 and May 1861. Before coming to Denver in the early part of 1860, Mr. Hinckley was a shipping clerk in St. Joseph, Missouri. It is not known what happened to Mr. C. S. Hinckley after he sold out his Express Co. to Ben Holliday (the Stage Coach King).

Who were the parents of ABRAHAM M. HINCKLEY who operated the A. M. Hinckley's Express Co. of New York City, N. Y., for a short time in 1855 with Hiram M. Dixon. The business was transferred to the Metropolitan Errand & Carrier Express Co. on Aug. 7, 1855, and this company operated until 1859. The same A. M. Hinckley probably also operated the A. M. Hinckley & Co.'s Isthmus of Panama Transit Express between New York and Aspinwall, Panama.

ROGERS:

Wayne Rogers, 621 N. Robinson, Oklahoma City, Okla., wants data on ROGERS family of Butler/Crenshaw Co., Ala., and Texas descendants of George, John, and Oliver A. Rogers, sent to W. W. Rogers, 50 Northway Drive, Pittsburgh 37, Pa.

McFARLAND-WHITE; ALBERTY-McCALEB:

Mrs. Bland Turner, Librarian, Shackelford County Library, Albany, Texas, writes, "My lines are McFarland-White and Alberty-McCaleb. Do you have anyone working on the McFarlands, pioneer family of Missouri? My father was WILLIAM HORACE McF. (1861); his father, HORATIO H. McF. (1830); and his father, name unknown, was the pioneer- probably 1812-1820. My problem is that I do not know the county."

HINES, TARRANT:

Mrs. C. W. Bynum, Bynum School of Music, Box 505, Carlsbad, New Mexico, writes, "I am very interested in finding the parents of Capt. Thomas Jefferson Hines, my great grandfather. There is a clipping that says that his mother was a TARRANT. She died when he was five years old and General Tarrant brought him to Texas. The house that my great grandfather built in 1853 in Wzxzhachie, Texas, at 124 Kaufman Street is in very good condition today."

STATE AND COUNTY BOUNDARIES:

Contributed by J. J. Crider, 3124 Fairview, Fort Worth 11, Texas

Beginning with the immigrant ancestor who settled in one of the 13 Colonies and who following the Revolution, followed the tide of immigration westward—we, of course, find new states and counties being developed. These counties generally are known as "Parent" counties. Then came the formation of new counties from these "Parent" counties and later the subdivision of the new counties into additional counties. This information has been generally catalogued and is readily available for the searcher when the information is required.

However, a somewhat difficult circumstance may be encountered by a searcher due to the acts of various state legislatures. These acts redefined the boundaries of many counties. Perhaps a detailed study of the history of a given county will reveal that a corner or protrusion of the county was "traded" for a similar section of an adjoining county. This can create a blind-spot for a searcher when using census data or county records. A detailed study of the county's history and geography should be made to overcome this research difficulty.

In some cases this adjustment of boundaries has also taken place between states. This being accomplished by Supreme Court decisions and was usually after very heated contests between the states that were involved. As an example, an ancestor shown in the census of 1830-40 to have been a Missouri resident and residing in a county near the Mo.-Iowa line, may in 1850 be found as a resident of a county in Iowa. This would be due to the 1849 Court decision that settled the long contest over the boundary between these two states....Ancestors may be very difficult to locate if they lived along these changing boundary lines.

Third Generation

John Houston (the immigrant), his wife, Margaret Cunningham, and his widowed mother, Margaret (McClung) Houston and six children came to America in 1730, from northern Ireland and landed in Philadelphia. They located first in Pennsylvania, but soon moved to old Augusta County (now Rockbridge County), Virginia and settled on the "Borden Tract" near where Old Providence Presbyterian Church was a little later built by John Houston and some of the other settlers. John Houston was born in 1690 in Scotland and died testate in Augusta County, Virginia, in 1754; he is buried in Old Providence Presbyterian Church Cemetery. See Will at Stanton, Will Book # 2, Page #40. His will was proved by his widow, Margaret (Cunningham) Houston on May 15, 1755.

Fourth Generation

The six children of John Houston (the immigrant) and his wife, Margaret (Cunningham) Houston were John Houston, Jr., James Houston, Robert Houston, Matthew Houston, Mrs. Gillespie, and Mrs. Montgomery. John Houston's will mentioned above named only two sons, Robert and John, Jr.; the other children are mentioned but not named. The history here will deal with the descendants of Robert Houston only.

Fifth Generation

Robert Houston, born 1720, married Margaret Davidson, daughter of Samuel and Ann (Dunlop) Davidson. They were the parents of John Houston, Samuel Houston, Mrs. Gillespie, Mrs. McKee, Mrs. Letcher, Mrs. McClung, and Mrs. Hopkins.

Sixth Generation

Samuel Houston married Elizabeth Paxton; they had six sons and three daughters; the fifth child, Samuel Houston, Jr., was later to become the General Sam Houston of Texas & Tennessee fame. (See The Houston Family, by Rev. Samuel Rutherford Houston, D. D., son of Sam Houston, published in 1882, in Cincinnati, Ohio.)

Seventh Generation

After the death of Samuel Houston, Sr., his wife, Elizabeth (Paxton) Houston moved with her family to Blount County, Tennessee, and her son, Sam Houston, Jr., grew up among the Cherokees, as that part of Tennessee was at that time in the Cherokee Nation. General Sam Houston, born 2 March 1793, in Rockbridge County, Va.; and died 26 July 1863, in Texas, married 1stly Eliza Allen, born 2 December 1809, near Lexington, Virginia; died 3 March 1862. They were married 22 January 1829, while Sam was governor of Tennessee and they were divorced soon after that. Sam Houston resigned as

Governor of Tennessee after his separation from Eliza (Allen) Houston and went into the Indian Territory to the home of his old friend, Chief John Jolly, with whom he had spent much of his early life on Jolly's Island at the junction of the Tennessee and Hiwassee Rivers. Note that while there had been immigration of the Cherokees to Arkansas and the Indian Territory since the early 1800's, the forced removal of the Cherokee Nation East to the Cherokee Nation West was accomplished during the winter of 1828 and 1829; it is possible that Sam Houston went over the Trail of Tears with some of the Cherokee trains. His Citizenship Papers to the Cherokee Nation West were signed by Chief John Jolly & Chief Walter Webber, members of the National Council. (See Cherokee Pioneers, by James M. Carselowey, Adair, Oklahoma.) Sam Houston married 2ndly Tiana (Talahina) Rogers, a daughter of Captain John Rogers, Sr., and Jennie Due (Cherokee). Jennie was the daughter of Robert Due and Elizabeth (Emory) Due and the granddaughter of William Emory and Mary Grant. Sam Houston and Tiana were married in 1830 at the home of her brother, John Rogers, Jr., (Chief of the Cherokee Nation West) at Spavinaw, Oklahoma. They lived near what is now Gore, Oklahoma, on a farm now owned by R. B. Carlisle. (See Indian Pioneer History, Grant Foreman Collection, Pages 170-175, Vol. 109, in Indian Archives Division, Oklahoma Hist. Society.) Talahina was born in 1800 and died in 1839; she is buried in Fort Gibson National Cemetery, on the west side of the Officers' Circle; her tombstone says, "Talahina Wife of Sam Houston;" Tiana's grave is No. 2467. There was no issue by this marriage. Sam Houston married 3rdly Margaret Moffett Lea, born 11 April 1819; died 3 December 1867. They were married at Mobile, Alabama, on 9 March 1840. Sam was in Mobile for surgery on his wound received at the Battle of San Jacinto at the time of his marriage. Children of Sam Houston and Margaret Moffett (Lea) Houston were:

A GENEALOGICAL QUOTATION:

"Genealogy is concerned with ancestry. Every reference librarian knows the avidity with which would-be members of first families trace their lineage back through the Revolution and across with the Mayflower, and the gleam in the eye of the patron who has just traced his line back to the ninth century is enthusiastic evidence of public recognition for library service....The use of genealogical reference tools requires a skill all its own."—Louis Shores: Basic Reference Sources.

MARRIAGE BONDS IN COLONIAL AMERICA

--by Troy Young Collins, a paper given at the October 30, 1961 F. W. G. S. Workshop

"We're more interested in the names on marriage bonds than we are in the history of those bonds, because they show names the licenses do not show. Maybe a bondsman was a parent or a neighbor, and maybe a witness was a relative or a friend. The sad fact is that so many of the civil license and bond records have been destroyed. Many of the old state-church marriage registers are gone forever too. After all, genealogy is history—raked up with a fine-tooth comb.

The publication of state-church banns came first; civil licenses came later; civil bonds came last. You could still get married by the banns route, without bond or license. But if you chose the license route, you had to put up a bond to get the license. Marriage bonds didn't stop at the close of the Revolutionary War, and not until 1834, did the last tax-supported church vanish from America. Each state passed its own marriage laws, and, of course, they weren't uniform. Some states were still using marriage bonds even after the close of the Civil War. Today the various states prescribe licenses only.

The state-church had its lobbyists in Parliament and succeeded in fixing prices, discriminatory prices at that. Thereafter they pleaded, 'Choose the banns route; it's cheaper.' The civil authorities, eager to get the higher fees, countered, 'Choose the bond-license route; it's quicker.' The war was on, and it really got rough when the dissenting preachers of various denominations began to chisel away on the state-church monopoly.

Prospective brides and grooms didn't always have smooth sailing either. At times state-church banns were refused; at other times civil bonds were rejected.

One prospective bride poured out her heart to the county clerk. 'In granting me license to marry with _____, you will have nothing to fear, as I am considerably above 21 years of age, and my parents are both dead.' And she got a bondsman to write too. 'I do certify that the above is done consentably; and as to the woman's being above 21 years of age, there is no dispute with me. She has lived in my family some time, and therefore could venture to indemnify you. Should there remain with you a doubt whether they be a counterfeit or not, my brother will be able to satisfy in that case.'

Another county clerk got a letter. 'We, the undersigned subscribers, doth certify that _____ and _____ are both free people, and old-country people, and have no friends in this country. Therefore, we allow them free to be married.'

A man, who had hurdled the bond and license handicaps, wrote a county clerk. 'You will oblige me very much if you do not mention my getting marriage license from you on yesterday, as some things have transpired that make it almost impossible for me to attempt to consummate the matter.' Four days less than a year later, he was married to somebody else.

Another man's first license wound up with this statement, 'Returned not executed. Lady hid under bed.' Later, one year to the day, he was married to somebody else.

A present-day notary public bond guarantees to the governor that the notary will faithfully perform the duties of his office. A Colonial marriage bond guaranteed to the king or to the governor that no facts existed which would prohibit a legal marriage. One Colonial marriage bond reads as follows:

'KNOW ALL MEN BY THESE PRESENTS that we _____ and _____, of Orange County, Virginia, are held and firmly bound unto our Sovereign Lord King George III, by the Grace of God King of Great Britain, France, and Ireland, and Defender of the Faith--in the full sum of 50 pounds current money to be paid to the said Lord the King, his heirs and successors, to which payment well and truly to be made, we bind ourselves, our heirs, executors and administrators, jointly and severally, firmly by these presents sealed with our seals and dated this 9th day of June, 1775.

'WHEREAS there is a marriage suddenly intended to be solemnized between the above bound _____ and _____, widow, the condition of the present obligation is such that if there is no lawful cause to obstruct the same, then this obligation to be void, else to remain in full force.' This bond named the bride, and it bore the signature of the groom, the bondsman, and the witness.

Now let's go back to the beginning. The first bride and groom put up no bond, got no license, hired no minister. In the second chapter of Genesis we read, 'Therefore shall a man leave his father and his mother, and shall cleave unto his wife: and they shall be one flesh.'

Long ago in Scotland a marriage, celebrated with neither banns nor license, was held by the court to be good. If such a marriage is entered into publicly and in good faith, it can be ended only by death or by a court-granted divorce. Today in Texas the unpopular and infrequent common-law marriage is good, simply because our supreme court has refused to tamper with Holy Writ. This isn't far-fetched logic; it's sound and necessary. For a completed license can become lost before recording, and a courthouse can burn down. Neighbors can prove, and have proved a marriage. Sometimes the only record of a marriage is in a family Bible. It's admissible as evidence in a vigorously contested case in court. And the Social Security Board will consider it too.

What about the Indians, who roamed across our prairies and through our woods? They lived in the midst of nature that God made and gave to them. Their marriages were honorable--upheld by our highest courts. Then too, if the unlicensed and unbonded marriage of a ship's captain-- celebrated in all the pomp a church could muster--was good, what about the unlicensed and unbonded marriage of one of his cargo, whose grandkids couldn't see her when she prayed in the dark?

One year before Columbus discovered America, King Henry VIII was born. Later he established the Church of England. He was its head, and all of his subjects were its members.

By statute in 1534, the archbishop of Canterbury could issue special licenses, good anywhere; and the parish officials could issue common licenses, good only in the parish.

By statute in 1541, all persons could lawfully marry, but such as were prohibited by God's law.

In 1632, Charles I required that a license be obtained from the governor of the colony, unless the banns of matrimony had first been published for three several Sundays in the parish church; and that a register be kept of each birth, wedding, and death. Marriages could be celebrated by license or by banns; either was valid.

In 1696, William III authorized fees to ministers or clerks for recording births, marriages, and deaths.

In 1705, Anne, queen of Great Britain and Ireland, required that if a bride and groom lived in separate parishes, the banns were to be published in each parish, or that the license be issued where the bride lived; that the clerk of the court take a bond with good security in the amount of 50 pounds; and that persons under 21 furnish the written consent of their parents or guardians, with two witnesses. The fees to the governor were 20 shillings or 200 pounds of tobacco; to the clerk 5 shillings or 50 pounds of tobacco; to the minister for publishing banns 1 shilling and six-pence or 15 pounds of tobacco; and to the minister for performing the ceremony--if by license, 20 shillings or 200 pounds of tobacco; or if by banns, 5 shillings or 50 pounds of tobacco.

In 1713, Queen Anne went further and required every parish minister to deliver a copy of the register of births and deaths to the secretary of the dominion. She didn't say, 'Deliver a copy of the marriage register too.' The marriage bonds stayed with the court clerk, and the completed licenses were supposed to be returned to him.

In 1738, in America, a James Collins failed to frequent his parish church for two months, and he was fined five shillings or 50 pounds of tobacco.

In 1748, Queen Anne prescribed that 'if any minister shall celebrate the rites of matrimony without such license, or publication of banns, he shall for every such offense be imprisoned one whole year, without bail, and shall pay 500 pounds.'

In 1765, Sir William Blackstone published his first of four volumes of Commentaries on the Laws of England. He wrote, '(1) Our law considers marriage in no other light than as a civil contract. The holiness of the matrimonial state is left entirely to the ecclesiastical law, the civil courts not having jurisdiction to consider unlawful marriage as a sin, but merely as a civil inconvenience. (2) The parties must be willing to contract, able to contract; and they must actually contract, in the proper forms and solemnities required by law. (3) Legal disabilities are: living spouse, want of age, want of consent of parents or guardians when required, too closely related by consanguinity or affinity.'

In 1771, in America, a Thomas Collins was indicted for attending the service of a John Young--the latter not having Episcopal ordination or being licensed as a dissenting minister, contrary to the Act of Toleration--who was committed to jail unless bonded for 50 pounds by two sureties for his good behavior for one year and one day.

I don't recall the year a family got mixed up on their almanac. Anyhow, one morning the son went out to plow in the newground field, and his feeble father stayed at the house. About midafternoon a parish minister and a witness came to find out why the family had missed the noonday church service. Well, the old man tore out through the woods, shouting as he went. 'Flay! Flay to the house, Madden. Thou art desecrating the Sabbath.'

In the days of the state church, there was much jealousy and stubbornness. Today we have separation of church and state, but once in a while a preacher will stray from his pasture and bray from his pulpit a political sermon that can't be found in the Bible. During Colonial days, the tax-supported state church was, in effect, a semi-governmental institution. Many devout parish ministers weren't always law-abiding citizens, especially when it came to delivering copies of their records to county clerks. They didn't render unto Caesar the things that were Caesar's; instead, they kept almost all to themselves. They argued, 'We've always celebrated marriage rites by banns, and this bond-license tomfoolery is the work of those dissenting preachers.' The civil authorities replied, 'But you could at least turn in copies of your records, so that we'll know who's who and what's going on in our country.' Even so, many of the devout parish ministers refused to obey this part of civil law, and they took their records with them when they moved to another parish. By reason of all this, we're hindered today in our effort to glean from their fields a little bit of history about our ancestors and their kinfolks.

My dad told me about a neighbor--one of those farmers who went to preaching to continue his worship. One night an itinerant evangelist tapped the farmer's shoulder and inquired, 'Are you a Christian?' The farmer replied, 'Ask my neighbors!..''

They both died in Williamson Co., Tenn. It is tradition that Robert Perry (b. 1772) was often mistaken for General Andrew Jackson. Robert Perry's wife, Elizabeth Houston, was the daughter of Robert and Jane (Steele) Houston. Elizabeth was born in Mercersburg, Pa., 1778; died in Kenton Co., Ky., 1855. Fountain Perry was their son.

Napoleon said, "I start out by believing the worst." This is a good attitude maybe for a French general but not the one for the family historian. A genealogist should believe neither the worst nor the best until he has checked the original sources.—Deckler

WE CHERISH THE LIBRARY:

Have you ever thought of the glory of the gift of the people of your community to the building of a public library? A library is a home away from home for anyone who wants to pursue a better way of life. There are books that teach you how to be a better parent, a better citizen, a healthier person, or a more devoted member of your church or temple. There are law books for the lawyers, geology books for the geologists, art books for the artist, and family history books for the genealogists. Of these, probably, the family history books have the least commercial value, but they contribute much to the pleasure of the retired school teacher or local historian who wants to pursue family history as a hobby or interesting pastime.

Remember all the knowledge and pleasure your local library gives you and your family and friends and cherish it.

--Deckler.

GENEALOGY AND THE TEXAS STATE LIBRARY

--a paper given by William K. Peace, Acting Director and Librarian, Texas State Library, Austin, Texas, at the June 26, 1961, Fort Worth Genealogical Society Meeting

"At last! On August 21, 1961, the Texas State Library expects to be open to the public in their new home just outside the original iron fence to the east of the Capitol. Among the many patrons served by the State Library those doing genealogical research will be some of the happiest since, for the first time in the history of the State Library, a special room for research in the field of family history will be available for their use and enjoyment. One room, set aside, with appropriate materials at arm's length, will be available for their use.

The State Library means many things to many people. To the un-sighted person in need of reading material the Main Library Division, Service for the Blind Section, with its present collection of over 13,000 talking books, is the State Library to them. On the other hand, to the retired school teacher who, after forty years of teaching in our public schools, needs to know exactly how long and where she taught school in order to receive benefits of the Teacher Retirement System, it may seem that the Records Division is the State Library. It is through this division of the State Library that she found her complete teaching record in the files of the School Superintendents' Annual Reports, stored and serviced by the Records Division of the State Library. The historian, author and lover of Texas history will tell you that the State Library is the Archives Division, with its treasure of historical records and rare books. All of them are partially right, but the whole of the State Library is made up of six divisions, each with specifically assigned functions to serve the various segments of interest to Texans, and administered by one agency head, the Director and Librarian.

To this group whom I am now addressing the State Library consists of the divisions responsible for the collection of genealogical material, the Loan and General Reference Division and the Archives Division. The former division is responsible for genealogy other than Texas, including a strong collection of the southern states, the Archives Division being primarily concerned with Texas genealogy, from the early days of the Republic of Texas forward.

Greater usage of our genealogical collection here in the State Library, especially over the past few years, has been noted with interest by myself and persons in charge of this subject field. The average number of persons using this collection, including Texas genealogy, is eight persons per day, and ranges up to as many as fifteen persons at one time, including groups from various societies over the State and individual group members.

No one area of the State can lay claim to being most representative of the groups using this collection, since all areas of the State are represented at one time or another. However, San Antonio and Houston are possibly the largest users, with the exception of Austin, of the collection. Of course, we have had many out-of-state visitors, especially from the southern states and adjacent states, using the collection housed in the Archives Division, primarily.

The Texas State Library genealogical collection, outside of the Archives Division, at the present time contains approximately 1,500 titles, with additions being made by gift and purchase of approximately 125 titles per year. This year, however, the average has almost doubled since I have tried to emphasize this collection so that we can have a good showing for the Open House, when this occasion arises. Of course, it just might be that I am a bit partial to this field over some of the others. However, this is off the cuff, you know, since I am responsible for all areas represented in the State Library, and as a professional librarian must show impartiality in subject fields.

The above number of titles, approximately 1,500, does not include those in the Archives Division of the State Library which, of course, will be available to all genealogical researchers visiting our Library by moving down the hall to the Archives Division. A consolidation of some of these materials is contemplated at a later date. However, at first we plan to keep Texas material together in one integral collection, with all copies over two of the same title in the Archives Division being sent to the Loan and General Reference Division.

Some recent additions to the collection are as follows:

- 1) GENEALOGICAL AND HISTORICAL NOTES ON CULPEPER CO., VA.;
- 2) WILL RECORDS OF SALINE CO., MO., 1821-1863;
- 3) MARRIAGE RECORDS OF SALINE CO., MO., 1820-1850;
- 4) MILLER GENEALOGY;
- 5) REGISTER OF ALBEMARLE PARISH, SCURRY & SUSSEX COS., 1739-78;
- 6) PARISH LINES DIOCESE OF SOUTH WESTERN VA.;
- 7) HISTORY OF TENNESSEE (4 Vols.), by Folmsbee, 1960;
- 8) CONFEDERATE VETERANS IN POTTER CO., by U. D. C. (Amarillo);
- 9) HISTORY OF CRISP CO., GEORGIA;
- 10) HISTORY OF POTTER COUNTY;
- 11) BOOTH AND ALLIED FAMILIES;
- 12) HISTORY OF RUSK COUNTY (Texas), by Dorman Winfrey;
- 13) LIFE AND LETTERS OF JAMES HOGG, (Vol. 1, 1770-1825);
- 14) HISTORY OF THE POLLARD FAMILY IN AMERICA;
- 15) EARLY GEORGIA WILLS, LINCOLN CO., GA.;
- 16) EARLY GEORGIA WILLS..., WILKES CO., (1791-1850);
- 17) INFORMAL HISTORY OF TEXAS, by Tolbert;
- 18) CHARLES DeMORSE, PIONEER...;
- 19) TEXAS HERITAGE: A SALUTE TO JOHN NANCE GARNER, by A. Garland Adair; and
- 20) DALLAS COUNTY (Texas)..., by John Cochran, 1928.

Texas material of great importance to the Texas genealogists may be found in the Archives Division. The highlights of some of this material are listed in order to give you some idea of what may be available for your use while visiting Austin. It must be remembered, however, that none of these materials can be circulated, and use must be made in the reading rooms of the Archives Division. However, some photostatic reproduction work can be done when requested on specific items.

The documents and papers in the Archives Division of the State Library relating to the Army and military affairs of the Republic have been probably the most thoroughly consulted of any papers in the Archives Division. Valuable especially to genealogists is the file on Audited Military Claims--the file containing military claims against the Republic of Texas which were audited and paid. The file originated as such by the work done by the first auditor who handled Army accounts. Since the file's organization, however, numerous pieces have been added to it from other files, such as the Public Debt Papers, Army Papers, Paymasters, and such. The Audited Military Claims file contains about 30,000 pieces--indexed--arranged alphabetically under the name of claimant--and this is a big help to genealogists. Other sources for research in the period of the Republic include:

- 1) ENLISTMENT PAPERS--enlistment certificates in the Army of the Republic. Arranged alphabetically under the name of the individual.
- 2) MUSTER ROLLS--muster rolls of the Texas Army and Texas Militia. Arranged under name of captains. Some so-called Ranger service is included in this group.
- 3) PENSION PAPERS--These valuable papers contain much genealogical information on pension applications such as date of birth, age, residence, wife, unit or organization in which one served.

Since the subject of the Republic has a strong leaning to the military, this might be a good time to examine the other military sources available to persons doing genealogical research in the Archives Division.

Historians will recall that the Adjutant General's Office burned in 1856 and records of the office from 1846-1856 are not extant, presumably having been lost in the fire.

Confederate Muster Rolls in the Archives Division are those which had been submitted to the Adjutant General during the Civil War, and some of which have been collected since the war. At a rough estimate these muster rolls cover only about forty or fifty percent of the names of individuals from Texas who had Confederate service. The Confederate Muster Rolls are indexed and are arranged alphabetically--the index cards give all the information on the muster rolls. Many persons think we have all records for Civil War service, but this is not true.

The Archives Division acquired some time ago through the Texas Historical Survey Committee forty-one rolls of microfilm of the National Archives card index file of all Texans who fought in the Confederacy. This is only an index, however, and the information is scanty. Full information concerning the military service of a Confederate soldier can be secured from the National Archives for a nominal charge.

Another important source for Confederate soldiers is the roster of persons who lived in the Confederate Home in Austin. Rather complete information was recorded when a veteran entered the Home.

Other military service records with an index include:

- 1) Card index to "RANGER" muster rolls. Cards give complete statement of service and cover the period of approximately 1840-1880.
- 2) Spanish-American War Service Card index to Must Out Rolls of Texas Volunteer Guard which had been mustered into Federal service--about 9,000 cards.
- 3) Volunteer Guards--card index to muster rolls of Texas Volunteer Guard, about 1885-1900--about 6,500 cards.

For the most part there is a fairly good index to the military service rendered to Texas, and genealogists should be able to have pretty good luck for such searching in the Texas State Library Archives Division.

The genealogist will consult the census a great deal in the Archives Division. Some census material will be available before Texas became a State (Nacogdoches Archives, Austin's Colony) but most helpful will be the Federal census for 1850, 1860, 1870 and 1880. On each census schedule the names of individuals are listed in the order of enumeration, and the schedules are arranged by counties. The Archives Division has copies of the microfilm of the population schedules for all Texas counties from 1850 through 1880. Since the names of persons are not alphabetized, a tedious search is required to locate a given entry. With the more populated counties such a search may take several hours or longer. There is an index at the Barker History Center at the University to the Census for 1850 and 1860.

Especially valuable to genealogists are the Public Debt Papers, 1848-1854. These are files of claims against the Republic of Texas which were acknowledged, audited, and paid. Contents include certificates, correspondence, affidavits, etc., for each claim, for first, second, and third class debts. The claims are arranged alphabetically under name of claimant.

The Bureau of Vital Statistics of the State Department of Health has made available to the Archives Division copies of Index to Birth Records, Index to Probate Birth Records, and Index to Death Records. These records totaling more than 300 volumes contain information on several hundred thousand Texans. Not all genealogists are acquainted with these sources.

The Texas Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution, through its state chairman of genealogical records committee, has made available to the Archives Division a number of valuable records. These include such things as marriage records of various Texas counties, Texas cemetery records, probate records, church records, and the like. The members of the DAR have spent a great many hours gathering this material and are to be commended on what has been done.

Briefly let me call attention to the following sources which genealogists will find helpful in the Archives Division:

- 1) Notaries public--card index to some of the notaries public files. Though not complete the file contains about 10,000 cards.
- 2) Pictures--This file contains about 21,000 cards to pictures in the Archives Division picture collection, and to many books in the Texas Collection.
- 3) Early Texas newspapers--There are in the State Library Archives Division about 1,500 bound files of Texas newspapers prior to 1900. There is great wealth in these papers, but unfortunately there is no index.
- 4) Registered Voters--1867--List of registered voters for all counties in Texas.
- 5) Memorials and Petitions--Memorials and petitions to the Legislature for various requests. Arranged alphabetically--about 15,000 pieces.
- 6) Bonds and Oaths--for officials of both Republic and State, 15,000 items.
- 7) Election registers--1836-1900--Manuscript books in which the Secretary of State recorded the official election returns. Valuable. 34 books.
- 8) General Land Office Letters--1837-1884--Original copies of all letters received in the General Land Office. Priceless history, seldom used. Indexed.

Some printed sources in the Archives Division are of much help to genealogists. Basic to almost any research in Texas history would be the Southwestern Historical Quarterly which contains an excellent index in each volume. A Cumulative Index to the first forty volumes of the Quarterly was published in 1950, and a second index for the past twenty volumes was published this year (1961).

Especially helpful to the genealogist is Abstracts of Titles to Patented Lands, the first volume appeared in 1838 and others were published during the Republic and early statehood. Since 1875 these volumes have been issued yearly by the land office and comptroller's department. In 1941 the sixty-two volumes were reprinted in eight volumes.

Not to be overlooked would be such publications as The Papers of Mirabeau B. Lamar, The Austin Papers, The Writings of Sam Houston, just to mention a few books containing valuable indices to voluminous materials. Recently the Texas State Historical Association brought out two splendid bibliographic items on Texas history: Theses on Texas History and Texas History Theses. These two works make available for the first time a key to the wealth found in theses done on Texas history, and genealogists doing research would certainly want to examine these publications.

Last, but not least, should be mentioned the General Index File in the Archives Division. This card index, primarily to books in the Texas collection, also contains some references to manuscript materials. This index originated in part with a transcript of the biographical index made at the University of Texas by the W. P. A., and has subsequently been increased with additional references. It is the chief finding aid in the Archives Division.
